ON THE COVER

This month's cover comes from Kloster Eberbach, near Frankfurt, Germany. The door at the end of the room was made famous as the secret library door in The Name of the Rose, starring Sean Connery. The room is designed as an optical illusion: the heights of the columns increase as they reach the door so it appears larger closer than it really is (or, looking the other way, the room appears to extend farther than it does). You can see this room by taking a class from Big Nerd Ranch.
